Small Action, Great Impact: HWPL To Hold Peace Walk at Daley Center

Chicago, IL, May 17, 2019 – Friday morning, the Chicago branch of HWPL (Heavenly Culture, World Peace, Restoration of Light) invites all leaders and peace messengers to show their support for the realization of peace in Chicago. Beginning at the Daley Center and finishing at Water Tower, the peace walk aims to unite the citizens of Chicago and use their voices to speak out against the violence that plagues the city. Participants can register online at “hwplchicago.org.”

The peace walk, sponsored by the non-profit organization HWPL and the International Peace Youth Group (IPYG) is happening in countries all across the globe; and is just one step of many that residents in Chicago and around the world can take in order to enact change.

The peace walk will also feature a time to write and sign peace letters, which will be sent to President Trump. In less than a year, 165,782 peace letters have been sent to 193 current Presidents and members of the United Nations.

There will be performances by young adults and creatives dedicated to peace and nonviolence after the walk, as well as an opportunity to discuss ways that we can accomplish peace and adopt change in Chicago.
